

Small Packable Bags for All Your Odds and Ends

January 7, 2015

By Kate Ryan

We've all been there: You've had a great vacation and are packing to go home. Your suitcase is stuffed and you realize—due to gifts, trinkets, or vino picked up along the way—that you have a lot more to haul home than you did when you arrived. Save frustration, time, and money by planning ahead with a bag you can stow away in your suitcase.

These packable bags from members of the Travel Goods Association take up minimal room until you need them for the journey home and also ensure that you won't get stuck shipping your new goodies, or worse, get stranded in the middle of the airport with a torn shopping bag. The best part? Each is under $50 and can be used for countless trips.

LiteGear City Tote by LiteGear Bags

With versatile carrying options as a shoulder bag or a sling bag, the City Tote by LiteGear Bags is great for casual day-to-day use. The LiteGear City Tote bag is made from polyester microfiber fabric and features a small shape and a relaxed design with an ergonomic strap that makes it comfortable to carry. MSRP $24.95
